REGARDING ABB AND THE OCCUPATION OF WESTERN SAHARA

Dear Mr. Wierød

Terre des hommes schweiz, Artikel2 and Western Sahara Resource Watch are privileged to present you with our compliments.

Our three associations are writing to follow up on earlier correspondence regarding your company's former operations in occupied Western Sahara and to learn about your company's position on the matter.

We refer to the following correspondence:

* A letter from terre des hommes schweiz to ABB Schweiz AG on 11 June 2018¹, and response from ABB Management Services Ltd on 11 June 2018².

* An email from Friends of Western Sahara Japan, terre des hommes schweiz, Switzerland, Emmaus Stockholm, Sweden to Hitachi Ltd on 19 December 2019. The company responded on 18 December 2019 that "Negotiations regarding the acquisition of ABB's power grid business are proceeding smoothly. Hitachi is promoting the clearance of competition laws around the world, and advancing as scheduled toward the completion of the acquisition in the first half of 2020. Therefore, we are very sorry we can't answer at this time."³

* A letter from WSRW to the new joint-venture Hitachi ABB Power Grids in 18 August 2020, requesting it to clarify its current contractual obligations in Western Sahara⁴. No reply was received.

We also refer to a post on LinkedIn, dated 22 June 2022 (to the right), in which staff of the company Fairwind posted a picture of ABB equipment in the occupied territory in relation to the construction of the Aftissat 2 project.⁵

We lastly refer to the initial press release from ABB, dated 7 July 2017⁶, erroneously claiming that the location of the project was in "Morocco".

We take note of the 2022 acquisition by Hitachi Ltd of the 19,9 percent share that ABB formerly held in Hitachi Energy Ltd/Hitachi ABB Power Grids, and we expect, as such, that ABB Ltd has no longer any stake in the operation at Aftissat.

As mentioned in our previous correspondence, we find it deeply problematic that ABB, and later Hitachi ABB Power Grids, implemented such an infrastructure project in the occupied territory.

Allow us to contextualise our query and update you on the development since last time we wrote to ABB.

The United Nations consider Western Sahara to be a non-self-governing territory without an administering power in place. The International Court of Justice has confirmed that Morocco has no sovereignty over the territory, and that the people of Western Sahara have a right to self-determination – the right to determine the future status of the territory.⁷ In 1988, the UN was able to broker a ceasefire arrangement between Morocco and the Western Sahara liberation movement, Polisario, in which both parties agreed to hold a referendum on self-determination.⁸ To that goal, a UN mission (MINURSO) has been deployed to the territory, but it has not been able to organise a referendum as Morocco continues to block any effort that offers a choice beyond integration. In November 2020, the ceasefire collapsed after the Moroccan army seized a section of the UN buffer zone to break up a Saharawi protest.⁹

While well over a hundred of UN Resolutions, and rulings by the International Court of Justice, the European Court of Justice¹⁰ and the African Court on Human and Peoples' Rights¹¹, all underline that Morocco has no sovereignty or administering mandate over Western Sahara, Morocco continues to militarily control about three-quarters of the territory. Incentivized by its exploitation of the territory's resources, Morocco has little interest to genuinely take part in the UN-mediated peace process. Meanwhile, the lingering conflict continues to have a high human and humanitarian cost: over 170,000 Saharawis are stuck in refugee camps in neighbouring Algeria, surviving in harsh desert conditions and dwindling humanitarian aid. Saharawis who live under the yoke of Morocco's occupation are victims of serious human rights violations that have been reported by the UN Human Rights Committee, UN Working Group on Arbitrary Detention, the UN Special Rapporteur on Human Rights Defenders, in addition to credible international organisations such as Human Rights Watch, Amnesty International, and others. In 2023, the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights lamented the fact that his Office has not been allowed to visit Western Sahara for the last eight years.¹² Year after year, Western Sahara is ranked among the worst countries and territories in terms of political rights and civil liberties, on par with countries and territories like North Korea, Syria, Afghanistan and Crimea.¹³

The status of the territory comes with repercussions for business activities. As established in 2002 by the UN Legal Counsel at the request of the Security Council, Swedish amb. Hans Corell, any economic activity in the territory would be in violation of international law if not undertaken in accordance with the wishes and the interests of the people of the territory.¹⁴ We also refer to the conclusions of the UN Treaty Body on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights¹⁵ and of the UN Human Rights Committee¹⁶, which have both emphasized the need of obtaining the Saharawi people's "consent to the realization of developmental projects and [resource] extraction operations". In this context, it is important to stress that the rights of the people of Western Sahara should not be viewed through the concept of FPIC, as they are not an indigenous people with certain rights to a part of a territory in a state that they recognise as such - the people of Western Sahara are the holders of the sovereign rights to Western Sahara as a whole. Their homeland is in part under foreign occupation, but the right to self-determination - the right to decide the status of the territory as a whole, and of the resources harboured therein - lies with the Saharawi people. The UN treats the unresolved conflict in Western Sahara through the right to self-determination as the cornerstone principle, and does not regard this as an indigenous peoples issue.

Recent years have witnessed an emerging body of law pertaining to Morocco's claim to the territory. Since 2015, in ten (!) consecutive rulings, the Court of Justice of the European Union has concluded on the following points as settled:

- The territory of Western Sahara constitutes a territory distinct from that of the Kingdom of Morocco.¹⁷
- Morocco has no sovereignty¹⁸ or administering mandate¹⁹ over Western Sahara.
- The people of Western Sahara are to be regarded as a third party to the EU's agreements with Morocco, and that as such, no agreement can affect their territory without their consent, as a corollary of the right to self-determination.²⁰
- The Court is clear that the right to consent resides with the people of Western Sahara, and not with the population of the territory.²¹ The Court stipulates that "a majority of the population of Western Sahara is not part of the people holding the right to self-determination, namely the people of Western Sahara. That people, which for the most part has been displaced, is the sole holder of the right to self-determination with regard to the territory of Western Sahara."²² The Court adds that "there is a difference in that regard between the concept of the 'population' of a non-self-governing territory and of the 'people' of that territory. The latter refers to a political unit which holds the right to self-determination, whereas the concept of 'population' refers to the inhabitants of a territory."²³
- The Court has firmly established the position of Front Polisario, the UN-recognised representation of the people of Western Sahara to be able to bring cases before EU Courts on behalf of the Saharawi people, and that it has access to the Court to defend their right to self-determination.²⁴
- In Case C-399/22, which specifically dealt with the labelling of products from Western Sahara, the Court again emphasised the separate and distinct status of the territory in relation to Morocco, and concluded that at the stages of import and sale to the consumer, the labelling of the goods from Western Sahara must indicate Western Sahara alone as the country of origin of those goods.²⁵

Based on the above, our three associations have some follow-up questions to your company:

1. Taking into account that your company in its first press release in 2017 referred to the location of the project as in "Morocco", not in Western Sahara, how could this project have been taking place in line with the rights of the Saharawi people to self-determination as stipulated by the CJEU?
2. According to the contract that ABB signed with your customer, in which country did the operation take place?
3. Does ABB have any other current operation in Western Sahara today?
4. Does ABB have any planned operation in Western Sahara?
5. Will ABB commit to refraining from further operations in Western Sahara for as long as the territory remains under foreign occupation and Morocco's development projects proceed without the explicit consent of the Saharawi people?

¹⁷ Judgment of 21 December 2016, EU:C:2016:973, §92, and reiterated in the Judgment of 27 February 2018, EU:C:2018:118, §62, Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:833, §163, Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:839, §85 and Judgment of 4 October, EU:C:2024:835, §134.

¹⁸ Judgment of 10 December 2015, EU:T:2015:953, §241. Considered a settled matter in subsequent rulings.

¹⁹ "Account must also be taken of the fact that the Kingdom of Morocco does not have any mandate granted by the UN or by another international body for the administration of that territory, and it is common ground that it does not transmit to the UN information relating to that territory, such as those provided for by Article 73(e) of the UN Charter." Judgment of 10 December 2015, EU:T:2015:953, §233. Considered a settled matter in subsequent rulings.

²⁰ Judgment of 21 December 2016, EU:C:2016:973, §104. Reiterated and refined in subsequent rulings.

²¹ Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:833, §180-181. Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:835, §152-153.

²² Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:833, §157. Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:835, §128.

²³ Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:833, §158. Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:835, §129.

²⁴ Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:833, §96-138, Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:835, §70-109.

²⁵ Judgment of 4 October 2024, EU:C:2024:839, §89.

With this in mind, we are looking forward to hearing from you. This letter and your response will be published in a report about renewable energy in Western Sahara that WSRW is publishing later this year.

Sincerely,

Sylvia Valentin
